The Abundance Pension provided by Gaudi Regulated Services Limited

Key Features Document

SIPP

Introduction

The Financial Conduct Authority is a financial services regulator. It requires us, Gaudi Regulated Services Limited, to give you this important information to help you to decide whether the Abundance Pension is right for you. You should read this document carefully so that you understand what you are buying, and then keep it safe for future reference.

The Abundance Pension is a self-invested personal pension plan (SIPP) provided by Gaudi Regulated Services Limited. It has been developed with Abundance Investments Limited (“Abundance”) to hold debentures and other debt securities available through Abundance (“Abundance investments”). It can only hold Abundance Investments and cash.

We will refer to both the Abundance Pension and the SIPP - they are the same thing.

Gaudi Regulated Services Limited is the product provider and administrator of the Abundance Pension. Gaudi Trustees are the trustees of the Abundance Pension. These are referred to as the Gaudi Companies. You contract with Gaudi Companies to provide the SIPP.

Abundance arranges the issue of investments (“Abundance Investments”) that are available on the Abundance Platform. Only Abundance Investments and cash are available to be held in the Abundance Pension. You choose the investments on the Abundance Platform that you want to hold in your SIPP.

The purpose of this document is to provide important information to help you to decide whether the Abundance Pension is right for you. This document sets out the aims of the Abundance Pension, what your commitments are once you have commenced the SIPP and then outlines certain risks you should be aware of. We have also included some questions and answers about the SIPP. Within this Key Features document we have indicated where you can obtain further information, where applicable.

Aims of the Abundance Pension

The plan is designed to let you:

- Save for retirement in a tax-efficient and flexible way using Abundance Investments (you cannot include any other assets or investments in the Abundance Pension other than cash).
- Build up a pension fund to give you a tax-free cash sum and income.
- Make investment decisions by yourself or with your adviser.
- Make transfer payments from other suitable pension arrangements.
- Take benefits at retirement in stages, if you want to.
- Specify to whom you would like benefits to go to on your death, although the decision rests with the scheme trustee. The Abundance Pension is unlikely to provide for all your retirement needs. You should consider additional investment products or pensions which may be necessary for your retirement needs.

Your commitments

Once you have commenced an Abundance Pension, your commitments include:

- To pay money in and/or transfer benefits from other suitable pension arrangements.
- To commit to holding a minimum of £5,000 of investments in your Abundance Pension.
- Keeping those funds within a registered pension scheme, with us or someone else, until you take benefits, the earliest at which will be age 55.
- Taking responsibility for the management of the investments in your SIPP. You can manage them yourself or through an adviser.
- To adhere to the Terms & Conditions of our SIPP. Please see our SIPP Terms & Conditions for more details.
- To read and understand the Abundance Service Terms and Conditions at <https://www.abundanceinvestment.com/legal/terms-and-conditions> and Risk Warning at <https://www.abundanceinvestment.com/legal/terms-and-conditions> In deciding to buy Abundance Investments for your Abundance Pension, you confirm to Abundance and the Gaudi Companies that you understand and accept these terms and risks.
- To tell us if you stop being eligible for a SIPP or you are aware that your contributions are not eligible for tax relief (please see our Questions & Answers section for examples where this could be the case).
- Paying our fees for administering the SIPP on your behalf.

Risks

Please be aware that the Abundance Pension is not suitable for everyone and if you are in any doubt you should always take professional financial advice, taking into account the amount of your pension fund, time scales and risks.

Neither the Gaudi Companies nor Abundance provide advice and each operate on an execution only basis.

The Abundance Pension provides a way of holding Abundance Investments in a tax-efficient way. It is unlikely to cover all your retirement needs and you should consider diversifying the assets and investments on which you are relying for your pension. You are entitled to hold more than one SIPP or personal pension product, though you may incur separate charges for each product.

Below are outlined risks associated with saving for retirement through the Abundance Pension. Some of the risks below refer to the investment performance of the investments in your SIPP (which in this case means only Abundance Investments – you cannot hold any other assets or investments in this SIPP other than cash). Remember that you or your adviser is responsible for the investment decisions.

A personal pension or a stakeholder pension may offer you some of the same options as a SIPP at a lower cost. Please see our Questions & Answers section for more details on what type of investor the Abundance Pension is aimed at, together with a comparison of alternative options.

The favourable tax treatment for pension savings could change in the future.

Investment performance or charges may be better or worse than expected which could affect the potential size of your pension fund and therefore the benefits you receive. Abundance Investments are capital-at-risk products; see the Abundance Risk Warning at <https://www.abundanceinvestment.com/risks>. The issuer of an Abundance Investment may not be able to make payments under the Abundance Investment, for example because it is insolvent. This would affect the size of your pension fund and the extent it can cover your retirement needs.

Questions and Answers: About the SIPP

What is the Abundance Pension?

The charges or fees you pay to advisers may be higher than expected which could affect the potential size of your pension fund and therefore the benefits you receive.

We may also increase our fees and charges from time to time – see the Abundance Pension Terms & Conditions for details on the current charges and fees.

Other things that can affect the potential size of your pension fund and the benefits you receive include the amount you pay or transfer in to the SIPP, which could be lower than you anticipated, or if you take the benefits earlier than you were aiming for.

Investment conditions can also affect your pension income - if you convert your pension fund to an annuity (i.e. purchase a policy from an insurance company that provides you with a regular income) then prevailing interest rates at the time of conversion will affect the amount of annuity you will receive (generally speaking, lower interest rates mean lower annuity amounts, although annuity amounts are also affected by other factors such as life expectancy and your state of health).

Alternatively, if you decide to draw your pension directly from your pension fund in the SIPP then investment returns may not sustain your income requirement.

There may be a delay in receiving benefits if some of your investments cannot be sold quickly. While it is possible to sell Abundance Investments via its bulletin board, they are not listed or quoted on any investment exchange and sale of them is not certain.

Payments you take from your Abundance Pension are subject to Income Tax. You may have to pay a significant amount of tax if you make large withdrawals in a short period of time.

Whilst the SIPP can accept transfers from other pension schemes, not all transfers are suitable. You should seek professional advice before proceeding with a transfer as in some cases you could lose valuable benefits for you and your family particularly where the transfer is from a defined benefit scheme. A transfer may also involve costs and charges payable to the scheme from which you are transferring. You can only transfer cash and Abundance Investments; the Abundance Pension cannot hold any other types of investments.

You cannot transfer from a pension with safeguarded benefits unless you have received advice from a suitably authorised financial adviser.

Our SIPP is a plan that allows you to save for retirement in a tax-efficient and flexible way. It is only intended to hold Abundance Investments.

In agreeing to enter into an Abundance Pension, you must understand what is involved in investing in Abundance Investments – as well as SIPP Terms, you must accept the Abundance Service Terms and Conditions available at <https://www.abundanceinvestment.com/legal/terms-and-conditions>, and Risk Warning at <https://www.abundanceinvestment.com/risks>.

The benefits you can receive are subject to UK pensions legislation. This includes rules about limits on contributions that can qualify for tax relief, the earliest age you can take benefits and limits on what those benefits can be without incurring tax penalties, including the amount that can be taken as tax-free cash.

Who invests in SIPPs?

SIPPs are used by people who want to:

- Invest in assets selected by them or their adviser. Only Abundance Investments and cash can be held in the Abundance Pension.
- Make investment decisions about their SIPP assets themselves or in conjunction with their financial adviser
- Withdraw an income while continuing to make investment decisions about the remaining SIPP assets

A SIPP is unlikely to be appropriate for people who won't use the flexibility a SIPP offers in the choice of available investments or the way benefits are taken. You should consider speaking to a financial adviser about the most suitable pension option for you.

Who will administer my SIPP?

Gaudi Regulated Services Limited is the product provider and will administer your SIPP in accordance with the Trust Deed and Rules. This involves the day to day running of your SIPP, ranging from processing contributions, transfers, investments and paying benefits, to ensuring the SIPP adheres to HMRC rules and regulations.

Is this a stakeholder pension scheme?

No. Stakeholder pension schemes are a specific form of pension that must meet certain government requirements. Stakeholder schemes are generally available and might meet your needs as well as the scheme on offer.

You should consult your adviser if you are unsure whether a SIPP or some other retirement savings product, such as a stakeholder pension scheme, will best meet your needs.

What are the Trust Deed and Rules?

The trust deed and rules is the legal document that has established the Abundance Pension. This document also appoints trustees and the scheme operator, who is responsible for registering the scheme with HM Revenue & Customs (HMRC) to ensure the favourable tax treatment mentioned earlier is applied to the SIPP. The trustees of the Abundance Pension are Gaudi Trustees Limited and the Operator is Gaudi Regulated Services Limited who is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority to carry on this activity.

Will I have a SIPP bank account?

Each Abundance Pension will be set up with a dedicated bank account with Royal Bank of Scotland. It will be through this bank account that payments into and out of the SIPP will be made but the account will be controlled by Gaudi. You do not need to keep your money in this bank account. Unless you tell us otherwise, credit balances will normally be transferred to a separate client account maintained by Walker Crips Stockbrokers Limited holding money to be used for investment on the Abundance Platform. No interest is payable on funds transferred for investment on the Abundance Platform. At the moment no interest is payable on the dedicated SIPP bank account with the Royal Bank of Scotland but any interest payable in the future will be passed on in full.

What will my plan be worth?

The final value of your plan will depend on how much is paid in, how long you invest for, the charges paid, and how well the investments perform. Valuations are also available online.

We will send you an annual statement showing how your plan is doing.

How much pension will I get?

Pension payments can come from part or your entire fund. How much you get will depend on the value of your fund, how much of it you use for pension and the investment conditions when you take benefits. Therefore we cannot tell you now how much pension you will receive in the future.

What are the charges?

Gaudi charge fees to cover the cost of administering your SIPP. In broad terms, these fees cover such things as setting up your SIPP, the ongoing administration and regulatory reporting of the SIPP and for carrying out certain transactions. The fees for administering your SIPP are detailed in full in the Terms & Conditions. We aim to make our fees open and transparent so most administration activities that we are likely to carry out on your behalf are detailed in our fee schedule.

Occasionally a situation may arise where we need to charge additional fees for the work carried out - in such circumstances, we will notify you before carrying out any work and agree with you the basis of charging this additional fee i.e. whether it will be a fixed fee or linked to the time spent on the task, and we will agree with you any limits to the fee incurred.

Please remember that investment advisers may also charge for the purchase, sale and management of assets. They will provide details of these separately and these may require to be met from funds held in your SIPP.

Abundance does not presently charge fees to investors for using or investing via the Platform but this may change in the future.

Abundance will from time to time offer promotional discounts on the Abundance Pension fees, paid as a rebate on fees paid. See the Abundance Platform for details on any promotions available.

If you don't have enough money in the SIPP bank account or funds held on the Platform to cover our charges then we can sell assets from the plan to meet these costs or ask you to pay the charges personally.

Paying into the SIPP

What are my payment options?

You can choose from:

- One-off payments made by yourself or a third party other than an employer.
- Regular payments made by yourself or a third party other than an employer, which may be either monthly or yearly.
- Transfer of pension benefits from other suitable pension arrangements.
- If you are employed, your employer can also pay into your plan.

You can stop paying, or take payment holidays and restart payments later. Remember though, stopping payments, even temporarily, will reduce the possible value of your pension fund at retirement. When making a cheque payment, you should make your cheque payable to “Gaudi Trustees Limited re: <Title and Surname>”.

Are there limits on what I can pay in?

We will only let you make payments up to the limits allowed by HMRC.

Everyone can pay, and get tax-relief on, contributions up to £3,600 gross each year. Where your earnings are in excess of £3,600 you may make gross contributions of up to 100% of your earnings subject to a maximum amount known as the Annual Allowance, which is set each year by the government. The annual allowance applies as a total limit across all of your Registered Pension Schemes in a tax year. It covers:

- Your payments
- Employer payments made on your behalf
- Any increase in the value of retirement benefits you may earn from a defined benefit pension scheme.

Where you were a member of a registered pension scheme but had not fully used your available Annual Allowance from the previous three years, you may be able to ‘carry forward’ that unused allowance.

The Annual Allowance does not include transfers from other pension arrangements. They do not receive extra tax relief, so there is no upper limit on them. The Annual Allowance does not apply in the year of death. In addition, where you have not made the maximum contribution in any of the last 3 years you are able to “carry forward” the unused relief for the purposes of making a contribution in the current tax year.

Any payments over the Annual Allowance will be subject to an annual allowance charge at a rate set by HMRC. The amount of tax charged will be your highest marginal rate of tax determined by your individual circumstances based on your income and the amount by which you have exceeded the annual allowance. In some cases you may be able to make larger contributions in a particular tax year. If you think you may be close to, or exceed, the Annual Allowance you should talk to your financial adviser as this is a complex area.

Note that where you have started drawing benefits flexibly a lower Annual Allowance will apply.

Is there a minimum amount I must hold in my Abundance Pension?

You must hold a minimum of £5,000 of investments in your Abundance Pension.

Can I claim tax relief on what I pay into my SIPP?

Yes; your contributions can attract tax relief.

Anyone can pay up to £3,600 gross per annum (i.e. before tax relief) or 100% of their earnings (subject to the Annual Allowance or £10,000 where you are drawing benefits flexibly) whichever is the greater. We claim basic rate tax relief from HMRC and invest it in your plan. For example, for a contribution of £10,000 you would pay £8,000 and we would reclaim £2,000 from HMRC. (This example is based on 20% basic rate tax)

Contributions are made net of basic rate tax irrespective of whether you are employed or self-employed. Contributions made by your employer are made gross.

If you are a higher rate taxpayer, you can claim the extra tax relief through your self-assessment tax return.

Unused tax allowances for the previous three tax years may be “carried forward” for the purposes of making a contribution in the current tax year.

Is there any tax relief on employer contributions?

Employer contributions are not taxable as a benefit in kind for you and the employer will normally get tax relief on employer contributions as a business expense.

What if I am affected by ‘Enhanced Protection’ or ‘Fixed Protection’?

‘Enhanced Protection’ could affect you if, before 6 April 2006, you had any existing pension plans and they were near to or above the Lifetime Allowance (see later Q&As ‘Is there a limit on my plan’ for what this means).

Fixed Protection similarly protected accumulated arrangements prior to 5th April 2012 and 5th April 2014 when the Lifetime Allowance was reduced.

If this was the case, you may have registered with HMRC for protection against additional tax charges. You could lose this protection if you make payments into any registered pension scheme, including a SIPP.

If you transfer from an existing registered scheme it is possible that some tax free cash protection will be lost from that scheme.

You should check these points with your financial adviser before making payments into your SIPP.

Investing in the SIPP

What can I invest in?

The only assets that can be held in the Abundance Pension are:

- Cash (held in the SIPP bank account with Royal Bank of Scotland or the client money account which holds money to be invested via the Platform – see above).
- Investments on the Abundance platform.

If there is anything else you would like to invest in, it will be necessary to invest through another arrangement.

Limits

Is there a limit on my plan?

The maximum you can take from all your pension arrangements is called the Lifetime Allowance (LTA) as set each year by the government.

Having announced a reduction in the amount of the LTA in October 2010 the Government has made it possible for individuals potentially affected by the reduction to apply for transitional protection. If you believe you may be affected please contact your financial adviser for the latest position on this issue, including how it impacts on the 'Enhanced' and 'Primary' protection measures made available after the pension legislation changes which came into force on 6th April 2006.

Every time you take benefits from the plan, some of your LTA is used up. Checks against the LTA are carried out at various points, including:

- Whenever you use part of the fund for tax-free cash and start income withdrawal and/or pension purchase,
- At age 75 (if funds are still invested in the plan),
- When funds from which you have previously been drawing an income are used to purchase a pension, usually in the form of a lifetime annuity

At each of the above stages, an allowance is made for any tests that have already been carried out.

Tax charges apply to any further benefits once all the LTA is used. The tax charges are set by HMRC.

If you transfer the whole plan, it will come to an end. Any protection you have applied to HMRC for could be lost if you transfer. You should speak to your financial adviser before making a transfer.

Transfers

Can I transfer my plan?

You can transfer part or your entire plan to another Registered Pension Scheme at any time provided it accepts Abundance Investments or if it does not, any Abundance Investments must be sold to transfer the cash proceeds.

How do I decide what to invest in?

You can take your own investment decisions or appoint an advisor.

You can change your choice of investments at any time but you can only hold the investments available on the Abundance Platform and cash. While the investments on Abundance are transferable and you can seek to sell them through the Abundance Bulletin Board, they are not listed or quoted on any investment exchange and sale of them is not certain.

Taking benefits from the SIPP

Benefits summary

Option	From age 55
Pension Commencement Lump Sum (Tax Free cash sum)	Up to 25% of your fund can be taken as a tax free lump sum
Option	From age 55
Use your fund to buy a lifetime or five-year pension income, often referred to as an annuity	An annuity can be purchased, the amount of which will be determined by the value of your pension fund and annuity rates available in the annuity purchase. Generally speaking, annuity rates depend on interest rates, life expectancy and the type of pension benefits you are buying (e.g. an increasing or level pension and whether any guarantees or dependants benefits are included). If you are in poor health or have a lifestyle that could adversely affect your life expectancy (e.g. heavy smoker), then the annuity income could increase.
Draw a pension income be paid directly from your pension fund	You may withdraw an income directly from your pension fund. Normally 25% of the fund can be taken as tax free cash with the balance taxed as income. You can take all or part of your fund in this way. Flexi-Access Drawdown allows you to access your pension savings and take up to 100% of your fund. The first 25% is usually tax free with any income taxed at your marginal rate. Uncrystallised funds Pension Lump Sum allows you to take a partial withdrawal, with usually up to 25% tax free, and a single taxable income payment. Please note, You may have to pay a significant amount of tax if you make large withdrawals in a short period of time.
A combination of the above to meet your individual requirements	You could take a combination of the benefits described above and you do not have to take benefits all in one go. The way in which you take benefits is flexible and can be structured to meet your individual requirements.

When can I take benefits?

You may take income from your SIPP from age 55. You may also take benefits earlier if you suffer illness or an accident which leaves you permanently unable to carry out your current occupation, and you cease that occupation.

If you are 55 or over the government has launched a free and impartial service to help you understand what your choices are and how they work, this can be accessed online, over the telephone or face to face - see www.pensionwise.gov.uk.

It is strongly recommended that prior to accessing your pension benefits you seek advice from a suitably qualified financial adviser or obtain guidance from Pension Wise.

On death, different tax treatments apply depending whether you die before or after 75 - please see the Death Benefits section below.

Death benefits from the SIPP

What if I die?

The table below summarizes the benefits payable (assuming an annuity has not been purchased).

What benefits can be provided?	All of the fund is available to provide pension benefits to a spouse, civil partner, dependant children or other individuals nominated by you. Pensions can either be paid as an income or the fund can be used to buy an annuity for the individual(s).
Can a lump sum be paid?	Yes - if death occurs before the age of 75 then no tax charge is applied. Once you have reached age 75 then any lump sum death benefits are taxed at 45%.
Can I nominate to whom a lump sum is paid?	Yes, by nominating beneficiaries who you would like the Trustees of the SIPP to consider paying benefits to, although the Trustees will decide.

How are death benefits claimed?

To claim death benefits, the person dealing with your affairs should contact your adviser, or us directly, at the address shown later in this document. We will confirm the information we need to pay the benefits as quickly as possible.

It may not be possible to convert certain assets, such as property, into cash immediately. This could delay payment of some benefits.

Are lump sum death benefits taxable?

- Death before age 75: Lump sum payments and income will generally not be subject to tax.
- Death after age 75: Lump sum payments are subject to tax at 45% and any income is subject to tax at the recipients' marginal tax rate.

Is my SIPP fund taxable?

Pension funds do not pay UK taxes on income or capital gains. However, tax cannot be reclaimed on UK and some overseas dividends.

The tax treatment of the fund is detailed in the above section entitled "What if I die?". Inheritance tax is not normally payable on any death benefit lump sum although it may arise in the event that payments are made to your estate. You should seek professional advice if this is an area of concern to you as this is a complex area.

Further Information

Can I cancel my plan?

You have a legal right to cancel your SIPP if you change your mind.

If you want to cancel the plan, you should notify us within the 30 day cancellation period. The plan cannot be cancelled once the 30 days have elapsed.

The right to cancel applies to the commencement of the SIPP, on all transfers into the SIPP and to commencing income withdrawal for the first time.

If you decide to cancel your plan, any contributions will be returned to you less any tax relief claimed on your behalf, which will be returned to HMRC. Where you cancel your plan in respect of a transfer from another pension scheme, the transferring scheme may not agree to accept back your transfer value, or may not take it back on the terms that applied before the transfer, in which case you and your adviser will be responsible for finding an alternative scheme to which the funds can be transferred. Note: not all pension schemes will accept Abundance Investments and so it may be necessary to sell these before transfer.

In the event of cancellation, the net realisable value of any assets purchased and subsequently dis-invested will form the basis of the amount returned. This means that having taken into account any fees or charges paid in relation to the investment and any price movements (particularly downwards), you may get back less than you originally invested.

You have a right to cancel your plan within the first 30 days. Where you have invested during this period and you exercise your right to cancel then the amount returned will be the amount realised less any costs associated with the investment and subsequent disinvestment.

What if I have a query or complaint?

If you have a query or complaint, please email us at the address shown later in this document. If you have a complaint we will do all we can to resolve it. Details of our complaint handling process are available on request.

If you are not happy with our response and you wish to take the matter further you can refer it, without giving up any other rights you may have, to any of the following:

If your query or complaint relates to Abundance Investments or the Abundance Platform, you should contact Abundance here - <https://www.abundanceinvestment.com/contact>. Abundance is authorized and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority to carry on various activities, including arranging investments (including personal pension plans). You may also have a right to complain to the Financial Ombudsman Service in respect of acts or omissions of Abundance.

Where can I find more information?

You should speak to an adviser, or contact us. Our contact details are provided later in this document.

Can I get an illustration of benefits?

At the start of your plan, an illustration giving details of the potential benefits and costs will be supplied.

Compensation

The Financial Services Compensation Scheme (FSCS) may provide protection if we cannot meet claims made against us or because we cannot return investments or money.

If you are eligible, the maximum level of compensation for claims against firms declared in default on or after 1 January 2010 is £50,000 per person per firm. Further information about compensation arrangements is available from the FSCS website at www.fscs.org.uk.

The FSCS may also provide protection if Abundance cannot meet claims made against it in relation to the arranging and other services it carries on.

SIPPs are regulated contracts in their own right and hence are covered by the FSCS. Investments with regulated investment providers or insurance companies will be covered separately under the Scheme.

Those companies will provide information about the levels of cover provided.

Your status under the FSCS does not affect any statutory right you may have to compensation.

Law

The law of England and Wales will be used to decide any dispute.

We have based this information on our understanding of the law and practice as at August 2016. We make every effort to ensure that this information is helpful, accurate and correct but it may change or may not apply to your personal circumstances. Before taking any action you should always consider checking with an appropriate adviser. We cannot accept responsibility for any action taken on the basis of this information alone as you should also read the Terms and Conditions and the Trust Deed & Rules.

HMRC practice and the laws relating to pension taxation are complex and depend on individual circumstances and changes which cannot be foreseen.

This product is an investment regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority. The Abundance Pension is operated by Gaudi Regulated Services Limited who is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority with permission to establish, operate and wind up personal pension schemes.

Terms and conditions

This Key Features document gives a summary of the Abundance Pension. It does not include all the definitions, exclusions, terms and conditions.

The full contractual terms for the Abundance Pension are set out in the Trust Deed & Rules and the Terms and Conditions. If you would like copies of these, or clarification of any of the information provided in this document, please ask your adviser or contact us at the email address shown later in this document.

We have the right to change some of the Terms and Conditions. In this circumstance we will write to you to explain the reasons for any such changes.

The Terms and Conditions on which you invest through your SIPP in Abundance Investments are set out at <https://www.abundanceinvestment.com/legal/terms-and-conditions>
